Aunt Jeston Begins 103rd Year, Bedfast, But Enjoying Visitors

Fresh Air And Rest Recipe For For Longevity

Aunt Jeston Gevedon of Grassy Creek, who has lived long enough to be an authority on the subject, believes in keeping up with the times.

She was 102 years old Wednesday, December 23.

Aunt Jeston began her 103rd year quietly. A hip fracture suffered in a fall several months ago kept her in bed. Many of her friends in the county called and she has been receiving gifts and greetings for weeks. A woman noted for her memory looked at the past.

What kind of a world was it December 23, 1851?

Then as now, people were getting ready for Christmas. Many other things have changed. The first slow train had just made it up the Hudson from New York to Albany. . . . no train had crossed the Mississippi. . . . the Atlantic cable had not been started. . . . Abe Lincoln was hardly known outside Illinois. . . . Jeston, Virginia Testerman was born in Flat Ridge, Virginia, in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Aunt Jeston recalls the house as a huge three-story log house and her family lived well.

Then . . .

April 12, 1861—Cannon boomed at Fort Sumter, S. C., and war between the states was on.

A girl of 9, anxious for adventure, Jeston often climbed the mountainside to listen to the guns in the distance. Later she attended musters to induce young men to join the Confederate army.

April 9, 1865—General Lee surrendered to Grant at Appomattox. The south was free. Jeston's terms' Confederate money was worthless. And Jeston's mother was ailing.

The doctor advised a change in climate, so they sold the fine big house with the pretty yard and the chinquapin "growing" so prettily like and on Oct. 1, 1866, with her father driving a team of oxen, and Jeston, 14, a team of horses, they set out for Kentucky.

They were on the trail 21 days, stopping with relatives along the way. At one stop, Jeston's uncle had killed a bear and, at the request of the children, wrapped the bearskin back around the bear's carcass so they could see it.

Three years after they reached Kentucky, Jeston fell in love with the man she would marry—Rainey C. Gevedon. He died in 1897.

Aunt Jeston has two children living—Mrs. Isam Byrd of Campton, who helps care for her, and a son, Monroe, with whom she lives.

One of the living habits in the seclusion of the Gevedons is the custom of eating fresh air. Aunt Jeston, while a young woman, had "lung trouble" and the country having few doctors, she decided to devise her own remedies, including airing out the house every day—regardless of the weather.

"Mother has continued the habit for more than 70 years," Monroe said.

She also attributes her longevity to another habit—drinking tea. Aunt Jeston, while a young woman, had "lung trouble" and the country having few doctors, she decided to devise her own remedies, including airing out the house every day—regardless of the weather.

"I have smoked a pipe for 85 years," Aunt Jeston says.

APPLELESS APPLE PIE:

Take 1½ cups sugar, 1½ cups water, 1½ teaspoons cream of tartar—boil all together for 2 minutes. While liquid is cooling make pie crusts.

In the unbaked lower crust put 12 soft crackers broken in bite size pieces. Pour liquid (stated above) over broken crackers, sprinkle with 1½ teaspoons cinnamon then dot with butter. Now place the upper crust on top and bake at 400 degrees for 40 minutes.

When the pie has nicely browned and ready to serve, cut into familiar wedges and top with a portion of ice cream, if desired.

We ate appleless apple pie the first time the other evening at the lovely old mansion of Joseph Ross in the beautiful Indian Village section of Detroit. Try this recipe on your guests who think they know an apple pie when they eat one—

MORGAN TOBACCO PRE-YULE SALES REACH $1,203,155

Burley Income Is Above Last Year As Holiday Starts

Morgan county's cash income from the 1953 burley tobacco crop passed $1,200,000.00 Wednesday as checks continued to come in from crops sold prior to the holiday recess of sales Friday.

At the close of business on Wednesday, the Commercial Bank here reported 1,802 checks for a total of $1,203,155.42.

On the same day last year a total of 1,634 checks had cleared for a total of $1,192,583.37. Thus, this year's income in the same stripping to such an extent that many farmers took only a part of their crop to warehouses during the pre-holiday selling days.

Most observers now are predicting Morgan's cash income from this year's crop will go above 2½ million dollars. This will exceed last year's income by more than a quarter million dollars.

Burley tobacco prices averaged $54.03 a hundred during the pre-holiday auctions.

Kentucky's 26 burley warehouses sold 213½ million pounds for a total of $115,449,285 in the first three weeks of auctions. Sales recessed last Friday for the holidays and will be resumed on January 4.

The 115½ million dollars is 11 million less than received last year in pre-holiday sales.

Price averages declined slightly each week of sales. Opening week average was $55.29. Next week fell to $54.43 and last week to $52.46. The decline in average was due to the delivery of poorer grades. The good tobacco held firm in prices.

Although sales last week were increased to 4½ hours daily, the extra half hour had little effect on the volume of sales since there simply wasn't enough tobacco available to permit full time auctions. Usually markets are crammed with tobacco at this season, but this year the drought delayed stripping.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture now estimates the Kentucky burley crop will be about 43½ million pounds under last year's crop. The entire burley crop in eight states is estimated at 572½ million pounds, down 44 million under the ten-year average.

The Federal-State Market News here reported that last week burley prices dropped 25 cents to $5 per pound.

Christmas In The Country--50 and 90 Years Ago

Franksters Held Forth At Yuletide Ninety Years Ago

CHRISTMAS IN THE COUNTRY
90 YEARS AGO

(By Aunt Jeston Gevedon)
Grassy Creek, Ky.

To my good Friends, everywhere: I have been requested by our publisher to write my usual birthday letter and tell a story of the country doings at Christmas time of long ago.

Tomorrow will be the last day of my one hundred and two years of life and Wednesday will be my birthday, beginning my 103rd year. I am bed-ridden, and deaf, and can only lie here and think over the past, of which I have a vivid memory. The stories I could tell of happenings on Christmas time would make quite a book.

I read of scientists, disputing the old folks' tales of hard winters of yesteryears and claiming that there are no records of such winters. Well, I have a definite record in my head of the desperate cold of those old winters, when large trees froze and cracked like guns all over the forest where I have lived. I have seen my geese, though covered with a shed, with their feet frozen to the ground; my chickens with their feet frozen off; my cows with huge blocks of ice frozen to their backs, and their eyes so frozen that they could hardly see. But you wanted me to tell about the old-time Christmases.

Christmas then was to the youngsters as Halloween is now. All devilry that could be thought of was practiced as Christmas tricks. I will tell of some of these, but must make it short as it wears me to talk very much.

Uncle Joe Nickell had built a new barn, and had bought a new wagon, and had some young cattle in the barn lot. As Uncle Joe stepped out on Christmas morning, he looked toward his barn, and there astride the roof sat his new wagon, all nicely put together. On going to the barn, he found his bunch of calves all in the barn loft quietly munching hay. I didn't learn how he got the wagon or the calves down from there.

Another trick was to wait till the man of the house had gone to bed; then the miscreants placed a man on each side of the door and waited till the man of the house was asleep. Then they could be induced to come outside. This was hard to do, since every one was up to most tricks on Christmas. But they usually found the means.

My brother-in-law, Frank Henry had boasted that no one could get him out the door at Christmas times. But older heads took charge this time and they got him out. There was a big snow, and it was cold. Frank had left his big wood fire and retired. Just as he was getting warm in bed, he heard a child crying out in the road, near his mother trying to quiet the baby. Then a woman's voice cried Hello! Frank answered.

The woman asked, "Is this where Bill Parton lives?" "No," said Frank. "You came up the wrong branch."

Then, "Have you got a fire?" "My baby is freezing?" "Go round to the gate and come in."

"I can't find the gate. Will you please come and show me? My baby is freezing and so am I."

Frank crawled out of bed, pulled on his trousers and socks, opened the door and stepped out. Bang! Bang! Frank was beaten, but he had to treat.

Franklin Lykins of Caney, Luella Maxey of West Liberty and Jimmie Rose of Caney county happened to be visiting at Uncle Zeke McClure's. They wrapped up and raided Frank. Jimmie Rose was the baby; Luella, the mother; Zeke and Franklin fired the gun.

Candy Hearts, Yarn Stockings Given As Prime Gifts In 1900

(By B. E. Whit)

The two biggest things during Christmas fifty years ago were candy hearts and homemade yarn stockings.

One of the stores had a stock of candy hearts and a few toys, such as dolls, for Christmas. The hearts were hollow and made of candy about four by five inches, colored nicely and inscribed with the words, "I Love You," mostly given to girls, and some men gave them to their wives. There also were small candy hearts about the size of a quarter and of different colors with little verses of love written on them.

These and saw 1½ sticks of candy made up most of the gifts for Christmas 50 years ago.

Sometimes small dolls were given to the girls and knives to the boys.

Children pinned their stockings together and hung them over the back of a chair in front of the fireplace for Santa Claus who would come down the chimney to bring something for Christmas. The children were then hurried off to bed so Santa would come.

I know, for I peeped out from under the quilt to watch for him, but always fell asleep before he came.

Early Christmas morning we jumped from the bed and ran to our stockings to see what he had brought. We found some candy, sometimes an apple and maybe a stick of Lom Tom chewing gum. I have often wondered lately why they have quit making Lom Tom it was wrapped in separate slices in pretty tuck paper. It was the best and lasted longer than any other gum I have ever chewed.

There were few things adults bought and gave—sometimes a

Christmas Program At Baptist Church Here On Thursday

The Baptist church will present a Christmas program at the church Christmas eve, Thursday at 7 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Dulin.

The program will consist of the Christmas story, yule poem and a play, "The Birth of Christkindl." Those who will take parts are: Caroline Gabbard, Carlos Sue Haney, Betty Lou Adkins, Patty Haney, Marta Potter, Shirley Kemplin, Phyllis Dixon, Alice Sue Lacy, Kenneth May, Larry Adams and Julia Wilson.

At the conclusion of the program all those attending will receive a treat.

1000 STUDENTS ENJOY CHRISTMAS

A thousand children observed Christmas at the West Liberty school Wednesday. The program was marked by gifts and treats to all the pupils. A visit to the different rooms during the morning indicated that a great spirit of Christmas prevails among the students. Teachers entered into the festivities with enthusiasm.

W. O. Pelfrey, principal, said, "To see the bright faces of children, this is Christmas."

Mrs. Irene Murphy said, "I believe there is a Santa Claus. After this Christmas I will know for sure."

Revy Wheeler said, "Christmas is fine. One of our children was sick. We sent him gifts."

Mildred McLain said, "The children are happy. Christmas is the spirit of love."

Dorothy Lykins said, "All the children are enjoying Christmas. Elmer Craft said, 'It seems that everyone has the spirit of Christmas and is looking forward to Santa Claus. I believe he is here.'"

Arthur Johnson said, "I know there is a Santa Claus. I have seen him. His spirit is here."

Katherine Walton said, "Sure there is a Santa Claus. We could not have Christmas without him."

Beulah Stanley said, "I know there is a Santa Claus. All my pupils believe in him."

Era Bask said, "I fear we are forgetting the birthday of Christ too much and laying emphasis on gifts, and leaving Christ out."

Gene Haney said, "Santa Claus is a wonderful fellow."

The spirit that prevailed among the thousand students Wednesday morning is sufficient proof of Jesus Christ of Bethlehem born in a manger nearly twenty centuries ago.

WORK TO START ABOUT JAN. 1ST, BUILDER SAYS

Contractors To Use Local Labor In Its Construction Crews

Elliott county was picked as the most logical site for starting work of building lines for the new Mountain Rural Telephone Co-operative at a pre-construction meeting of contractors, engineers and co-op officials here Monday afternoon.

The meeting was held in the new offices of the Stake Construction Company, contractors, on the second floor of the Ryan Department Store building on Main street in West Liberty. The meeting was attended by Oral Stake, superintendent for the contractors; Woodrow W. Barber, manager of the co-op; Cottrell & House's consulting engineers of Nashville, Tenn.; Luther M. Rands of Georgetown, Ky., field engineer for REA, and Fred Rose, manager of the Licking Valley REA.

The Stake Company will be engaged for the next several days in warehousing their materials and in recruiting crews of workers, Mr. Stake said.

Asked by this newspaper, when work of building the lines would be started, Mr. Stake said "around the first of the year."

At the meeting today it was definitely decided to commence construction in Elliott county.

Fred Rose, manager of the Licking Valley REA, was called to sit in on the meeting because the phone co-op will use REA poles in some localities, Mr. Barber said.

Key personnel of the Stake Construction Company of Taunton, Minnesota moved into West Liberty on Wednesday to commence work on its contract to build 354 miles of telephone lines in Morgan, Elliott and Wolfe counties for the Mountain Rural Telephone Co-operative Corporation of West Liberty.

The Minnesota firm was low bidder at a letting here Nov. 10 on the several units of outside line construction in the three counties, and engineers have estimated the cost will run approximately $447,000.

Stromberg-Carlson Company of Buffalo, N. Y. had earlier been awarded contract for building and installing the inside dial exchange equipment in the central office in West Liberty and substitution exchanges at Sandy Hook, Campton, Ezel and Hazel Green, on its bid of $135,000. The inside equipment is now being assembled in Stromberg-Carlson plants and is scheduled for delivery in March.

The Stake Construction Company, which has a contract to complete the 354 miles of lines in 150 working days, will commence construction soon.

Two cars of wire and other materials arrived at Royalton over the C & O Railway last week, and other material is being received by truck. The material is being moved to West Liberty and the company has rented the Roland Stacy barn as a warehouse.

Oral Stake, partner in the firm, is here to serve as superintendent of construction. He was accompanied by other key personnel and they are establishing a trailer park on the Bellamy lot on north Main street here.

Mr. Stake said he expects to have a force of between 75 and 100 workers engaged in building the lines. The company will employ local labor except for key personnel, he said.

Woodrow W. Barber, manager of the co-op, said the scheduled date for completion of the project is July 1.

The Mountain Rural Telephone Co-op was granted an REA loan of $743,000 to build a modern dial system in its three county area. The co-op already owns the West Liberty telephone system and is serving 350 patrons. The new lines will add approximately 970 more.

Buildings already have been constructed to house the sub-exchanges at Sandy Hook, Campton, Ezel and Hazel Green, and the co-op's central exchange and office building on Main street in West Liberty is now being enlarged and modernized.

The co-op has signed agreements (Continued on page 8)

Miracle of Christmas

Christmas, the day when with reverence we join in celebrating the nativity of the Christ Child, has the power to work an awesome magic on men's souls.

Throughout the land there is a new stirring of faith, a quickening of hope and aspiration, and a welling-up of tolerance, forgiveness, and understanding.

These are the qualities that can bring peace on earth, and it is the reaffirmation of our belief in them that constitutes the Miracle of Christmas

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE OF CHRISTMAS

Christmas is the most loved and revered of all Christendom's festive days—and, along with Easter, the most mystical and symbolic.

Beyond the fact that we observe December 25th historically as the birth anniversary of Jesus, it is needful to know the true symbology of the Bible story of the birth of the Christ Child in Bethlehem nearly 2,000 years ago. For Christmas should remind us anew of the great truth that the Christ, the spiritual image of God, is incarnate in each of us even as it was in Jesus, and that we too can attain the Sonship of God which Jesus manifested so perfectly in His life on earth.

Christ lived in Spirit long before the birth of Jesus ("Before Abraham was, I am"), for He was created in the beginning in God's image and likeness. Christ is the "created" man, or the "formed" man, or physical man into whom God breathed the breath of life that made him a living soul. In the event which we celebrate at Christmas, Christ became incarnate in the consciousness and body of Jesus. John describes it thus: "And the Word became flesh, and dwelt among us (and we beheld his glory, glory of the only begotten from the Father), full of grace and truth."

THE BIRTH of a new understanding in us that the same Christ who became incarnate in Jesus can quicken the soul of any man who "believes in Him"—that is, becomes awakened or reborn into the consciousness that the Christ spirit, or image and likeness of God, is in us—that is the real meaning of Christmas. For Jesus said "I am in the Father, and He in me, and I in you" and again, "Lo, I am with you always."

God's breathing of the breath of life into the formed man gives us the life and consciousness which enable us to become aware of the created man, the spiritual man, the Christ, in us.

"God is Spirit," and His Son is the Christ incarnate in each of us from the beginning that forms the core of our spiritual being.

Attaining this birth of a new understanding of the Christ image in us and then manifesting it in our lives so that the Christ spirit becomes incarnate in our very consciousness and body is the paramount hunger and longing of all humankind and thus should be the paramount goal of each of us in order to attain perfect peace and harmony in this life.

It is good to have Christmas as a time to remind us that Christ can be born in us to help us find our true place in God's plan.

And what gifts shall we bestow upon the Christ Child when we find Him within us? Let us give Him our faith, love and obedience. And let us bless all mankind, knowing that Christ too is in everyone even though He may not yet be manifested by some.

THE ADVENT of this Christ spirit is an occasion of great joy. And we celebrate the Nativity of the Christ Child in the joyous and happy festivities of Christmas time. Glitter and luster and gay decorations can bespeak this joy in our hearts. The singing of sacred Christmas carols and decorations embracing replicas of the Nativity scene might more properly and reverently accent the significance of Christmas.

This joy, this stirring up of a new faith and this quickening of the new Christ spirit in us wells up into tolerance and forgiveness, understanding and love, and a desire to bless all mankind. The true spirit of Christmas is shown by sharing with our less fortunate neighbors and friends as well as our loved ones. By giving gifts and remembering others, "even the least of them," we symbolize our endeavor to bless all mankind.

So let us remember in our gift-giving, in the whirl of parties and activities of Santa Claus, that Christ is the true spirit that animates these joyous festivities, and that the event particularly symbolizes the advent of Christ.

BABSON'S PREDICTIONS

The noted American economist Roger W. Bab-son does not agree with some other economists that business will fall off 10 percent during 1954, but on the contrary predicts in his annual year-end statement that the chances "are 10 to 1 that at least the first half of 1954 will be fairly good."

But if business does fall off 10% it might well set off a chain action that would go to 30%, he said.

Babson, among other things, predicted there will be no world war in the first half of the new year, that prices of commodities and common stocks will be lower by June, that interest rates will remain about the same, that farm lands except near cities, will sell for less when farmers' profits begin to decline, that fear of a world war will grow, causing more and more families to move out of the larger cities, that fewer people will be employed next June and take-home-pay will be less, business will continue to boom in Canada, companies that will prosper most are those which have installed labor-saving machinery.

Unlike in previous years, Mr. Babson this year did not offer predictions for a full year but only until mid-1954.

Disagreements and tolerance are the foundation stones of the democratic way of life.

If you make mistakes every day don't feel discouraged; there is no one who doesn't.

IN OL' MORGAN

PATCHES AND CATALOGS
Bernard E. Whitt

The story in the Courier recently by Mr. J. M. Gevedon, recalling old days and early doctors made other things come to my mind.
While Mr. Gevedon can remember long than I can, yet not many changes had taken place during the interval between his boyhood and mine. Most of the changes have taken place within the last fifty years and I can recall that far back.

The clothing of most of the children at that time was made from old clothes or from gingham, blue denim or jeans which came in bolts in the stores and was cut and made by the mothers.
Sooner or later every dress or shirt or pair of trousers had one or several patches on it before it was discarded, in fact they were not discarded, patches were added as needed until much of the garment consisted of patches. There was quite a skill in sewing on patches and making them fit neatly. Of course, they did not correspond in color to the original garment. Often they were very conspicuous when a patch of red was placed on a garment of blue.
When I went back to Vance Fork school the other day, there was not a single patch on the clothing of a single child. Patches kept me from freezing and gave my parents enough money to buy the few necessities of life to raise a large family. The cash income of the average family then was not more than a hundred dollars a year. I am amazed and sometimes dumfounded when I think how little cash families had then and how well they got along. It families now would be as saving and economical as they were then with incomes of a hundred to five hundred dollars per month how much they could save. The patches made things last longer.

They made us appreciate the new clothes more when we did get them.

Today we throw away everything too soon. We need to keep things longer and learn to make them a part of ourselves. We don't love things or people or jobs when they are with us for just a few moments. They are just fleeting things. We need to patch the little flaws and broken strands in the warp and woof of life. We need to overlook and strengthen the little weak threads in the garments of life and in the love and understanding of friends and families.

There were a few other things we saved or salvaged and were useful. One was the Sears Roebuck Catalog. Just a few things were ordered from it. The blank in the book was used. It was worth a lot for the pictures. I wondered how they got the pictures of people and who they were. Then I noticed that most of them were alike. I wondered if there were really ladies so beautiful. The catalog helped to make prices. If the stores were too high we could order what we must have. Then sometimes every member of the family would order a catalog. The paper could be used to paper the walls of the home and make lampshades and save matches. These were made and placed in a box on the fire-board.

I think today we throw away more things than we used fifty years ago. We are wasteful, extravagant and careless. No wonder when a Chinaman saw a woman fall from a second story window and land in a garbage can he shook his head and said, "These Americans are so wasteful. That woman would have lasted ten years longer."

Friends here have received announcement of the marriage of Miss Janice Raye Arnett of Hollywood, California, to Mr. Monty Pearce on Tuesday, June 23. The wedding vows were exchanged in Tijuana, Mexico. Mrs. Pearce is the daughter of Oliver B. Arnett and Mrs. Francis A. O'Toole, former residents of West Liberty. Her grandfather, the late Charles Arnett, was once Secretary of State.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Courier—
I am in the tuberculosis hospital in Ashland. I have been receiving the good old Morgan paper for some time which one of my nieces, Mrs. Josie Williams is sending to me. And I just can't put in words how proud I am of it.

And I want to say to all my good friends in Morgan that I am proud of them all and especially the ones who made up money and sent me a television set. I sure do enjoy it very much. I have had 165 visitors in eight weeks and I thank the Good Lord for each of them. I want everyone that knows the worth of prayer to pray that the Lord will see fit to heal this body of mine so I may once more be able to go forth and preach again.

The Courier—
We receive the paper on Monday which is always a busy day but needless to say we are not too busy to take time out to read the Morgan county paper. Quite a change in the past 35 years since we left there, but we still find a few people's names we know. So many have gone on that we knew.

Best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

OBITUARY

DELMAR CLYDE ALLEN was born July 18, 1921, departed this life November 20, 1953, age 32 years, 4 months and 2 days.

He was married to Geneva Benton January 5, 1943.

To this union were born five children—Gary, Larry, Judy, Lowell and Brenda, ages 8, 6, 5, 4, and 17 months respectively.

Besides his immediate family, he leaves to mourn his loss his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Allen of Salt Lick; six brothers and two sisters: Elmer of Paris, Cleis, Clifford, Marie and Venus of Florida, Colo. of Dayton, Ohio, Junior in Korea and James of Salt Lick, also a large group of relatives and friends.

From childhood Delmar had a very optimistic outlook of the future and looked out into life with great expectations.

In 1939 when our nation was being plunged into a worldwide conflict he was neither hesitant or reluctant in volunteering his services in the Army to help preserve peace in our country.

Delmar spent five years in the Army, three overseas. As a result of his faithful service he was discharged in 1944 with a "physical handicap. Since that time he had been fighting a losing battle with multiple sclerosis.

All medical aid possible was rendered by the best physicians in six different veterans hospitals, but to no avail. In this case as in others, truly it can be said and was said by Christ himself—"Greater love hath no man than that a man lay down his life for his friends."

He was converted and baptized five years ago and stated many times that the future was bright and he was ready to go be with the Chief Shepherd.

When earth's last picture is painted,
And the tubes are twisted and dried,
When the oldest colors have faded,
And the youngest critic has died We shall rest, and, faith we shall need it—
Lie down for an eon or two,
Till the Master of all good workmen
Shall set us to work anew.

Around The Family Circle

DR. ADOLPHUS GILLIAM

HOW CAN I FIND GOD?

This question has been propounded to me many times and recently several times again.
If that question is really asked sincerely and can be answered it is the answer to the greatest question that man can ever know. I was sitting one night in a meeting in my earlier days with a man who was greatly disturbed about his condition.

He was feeling fearful, he felt that he was lost, he did not know where he was going but he was anxious to find an anchor for his soul.
Not many hours after that I sat with him for some time talking about his desires and his hunger. After a bit he looked at me with a sparkle in his eye, his countenance changed, and he straightened up in my presence and said, "Well, Dolph, I have found God." From that time on I knew that man really had found God because his life proved it.

It is the most important business of the minister to help people find God. If a minister cannot answer that question for a hungry world then he is out of his place. I remember sitting one Monday morning in a certain town with the ministers of that city. A man who was the minister of one of the leading churches of the town got up and said this, "A man came to my office the other day and looked me in the face and said to me, 'reacher, tell me how to find God.' " The minister went on to say, "I am going to be very frank with you brethren. I just did not know what to tell the man. I did not know how to answer him." I was greatly shocked. What can we do? What are we ministers to do if we do not know the answer to that? If it has not been answered for us how can we answer it for another? It would settle so many many questions, many many fears would subside and so many frustrations would clear up if men could only find God. The truth is that is about what most of the people are trying to do. They may not be doing it in the right way but they want God.

First of all let me tell you that God is not far away. He is closer than hands or feet or breath. But that does not mean that you will recognize that to the point that you make Him your own. The barriers between God and man are barriers that have been set up in the soul.
God sets up no barriers. His desire is to come into the mind and heart and answer the cry of every human being. But if they will not permit it then they have made it impossible for Him to do it without breaking down the things that they have done for themselves. So He is close and it is not because He is so far away. It is not the loud crying that is going to awaken God.
It is coming to that consciousness of Him, and what ever it is that helps us to do that is the answer to this question.

The most important thing in finding God is a dead earnest seeking of God. A lot of people tell you they are seeking God but they are not.
They are half-way doing it. They want Him if they could find Him in their own way. They do not want to pay the price of really finding Him. Nor they do not want to take the course that leads into a knowledge of Him. But an earnest seeking of God is just as certain to find Him as it is carried out. In Somerset Maugham's book "The Razor's Edge" the man searched all over the world nearly, went everywhere, hunting for something that he did not understand what it was but he knew that he wanted it and the wise old man told him to keep on searching.
What a tremendous experience it was when he was standing there gazing into the elements and the light appeared. Then when things cleared away and he relaxed in the presence of it he turned away a new man. He came back home with as different an attitude towards life as you could ever find in anybody. Naturally the question would be asked does a man have to go to the mountains in India or does he have to go to the Andes or where does he have to go to find God. He did not find Him just because he was in the mountains. It was not revealed to him just because he was standing in that particular place but over the period of his searchings and over the hungerings of his own soul finally he had come to the point where the barrier in himself was broken and the light of the eternal judge and the God of the Universe shone in. What he was doing was breaking down the barriers in his own life and when that happens there is God.

We are in darkness with light all around us often.
We pull down the blinds and shut out the light.
The light is always ready to come in but the shades must be raised and the barriers must be broken down. God is about us but we have to open up the windows of our own soul and so many things get in the way: our prejudices, our jealousies, our selfishness, our personal seeking, our egotism. All of those things are liable to build barriers through which none of us can ever see God. If we are seeking Him, if we are really seeking, even these things shall be melted away in time and there we can find God. In this connection let me say also that nobody ever seeks God without making an approach to Him in his own language and in language that he cannot utter, in his own way of praying, and the person who seeks God will continue to do so.

Another important thing is this: patiently waiting for the revelation of God whom he seeks.
Some of us get in a terrible, frustrated condition.
We get in an awful hurry at times. We would like to rush God up wouldn't we? We would tell Him how to do things and if He did not do it like we wanted it then we would doubt that there was a God who could do it. The writer who said, "In patience possess ye your souls" was not just talking. Patience, with faith in God, with a continued seeking is the highway that leads man to his ultimate fullness of life where God can be found in reality. So, if we could only seek carefully, patiently, and prayer-fully it would certainly be one of the great additions to our finding God.

There is one more thing—there are a lot of things that we must get rid of if we are going in some direction. You know when you travel you try to leave behind the things that are difficult. There are some things you can carry on a road of doubt and fears and distress and misery that you never can carry on a road to faith and hope and love. There are some things if you find God you are going to have to leave out. I do not mean that in a dogmatic fashion but we are going to have to leave some things out of life if we are ever to find God and this is the way I mean it. You do not do this by just cleaning things out. There are certain deep-seated things in the soul that are going to crop out unless the very source of them is taken care of.
You can stop up the trickling brook on the mountain side but it will find its way out somewhere else. You must get rid of those things that are in your own inner soul that God cannot dwell with in your heart and you are the one that is going to have to ask that they be removed and you must be willing for it to happen at any expense. You have to quit the things that you know are not in harmony with God and just put them aside. Now for some people that is difficult isn't it? It is one of the requirements and it is a straight road. I know that not many people are willing to walk it but "straight is the gate and narrow is the way that leadeth to life" and I know no other way to tell you. But seeking God and the promise is you will find Him, waiting for God and your patience shall be rewarded, a cleaning up of the things that are un-godly and you shall have a healthy soul. And I can assure you of that on the promises of eternal truth and by the millions of testimonies of people who know.

First History of Perry County Is On Sale at $4.00

The first published history of Perry County (Eastern Kentucky Mountains) now on sale, was undertaken as a project of the community and sponsored by the Hazard Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to preserve old records and from its sales to provide money for a scholarship fund for Perry county students.

The history includes chapters on formation, settlement, social growth, courts, transportation, industries, folk ways and customs, growth of schools, churches, communities and biographies of early families.

It is of interest to the neighboring counties because they were once a part of Perry county and many of their people and places are mentioned. Dr. Thomas D.
Clark, Dean of the History Department of the University of Kentucky has this to say about the book: "This is the story of one of the most important Appalachian counties. Here the original Kentucky mountain pioneers settled, and here was developed the Kentucky mountain culture which has been made famous in song and story. This book is one of the most important published sources for this significant chapter in American social history."

It is cloth bound, lettered in gold and has 286 pages, complete with index and bibliography. It is generously illustrated with old photographs.

In January the history will be reviewed by Dr. J. Winston Coleman in the Pilsen Club Quarterly and by Mr. Bayles Hardin in the Kentucky Historical Register.
Edition limited to 900 copies.
Price $4.00 plus 25c mailing fee.

son, 605 Maple Street, Hazard,

Mountain Muses

Edited By
JOHN D. ENGLE, JR.

Send all poems to Mr. Engle 326 Woodland Avenue, Lexington, Ky.

An essential part of human faith and hope is the belief in a brighter tomorrow. No matter how dark it becomes, we have faith in the breaking of dawn.
No matter how cloudy the day, we are comforted in knowing that the sun still shines behind the clouds. Somewhere there are greener pastures. Somewhere our brief lives will merge with an eternity of bliss. Sometime, somewhere our questions will be answered.

This idea of faith and hope has been written into man's poetry for ages. It appears in his hymns and in his popular songs today. Because this subject is so popular, it is hard for one to write on it with any great degree of originality.

A Morgan county contributor to M.M. has sent a poem on this subject. He has, however, put a new slant on an old idea and has come up with an interesting poem. This contributor wishes to be known only as "Uncle Ed."
Here is his poem:

A COMPARISON
The highest sun at morning Of sets with lingering ray To mourn the lovely passing Of a most blissful day.

To others there it seems.
So with us earthly creatures, When our short day is done We'll pass across the mountain Where shines the brightest sun.

I shall not go into any long, drawn-out analysis of this poem, but I should like to point out three things that it may possibly be better without: (1) the archaic "oft" in stanza one, (2) the inversions, "brightly it may shine" and "mourn we our own passing" in stanza two, and (3) the contraction, "we'll" in stanza four.
These three improper poetic practices have been pointed out before in M.M. Of course, there was a time when these three practices were not improper, and it is true that much of our greatest poetry uses all three. Language, however, changes with time; and today, editorially speaking, the poems that go the farthest are those which avoid archaisms, inversions, and contractions.
Thanks for the poem, "Uncle Ed," and please send more.

CROCKETT CLUB HAS YULE PARTY

The gaiety of the yuletide season was reflected in the annual party of the Crockett Homemakers club in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Skaggs. The Christmas tree was in the living room and beautifully decorated to meet the spirit of the season.

The program was directed by Mrs. Skaggs who led the first song, Silent Night, the group also singing. The history of the song was given by Mrs. Skaggs.

The Rev. J. W. Ferguson led in prayer after which a special song was sung by Misses Joyce, Jessie and Betty Fyffe. Mrs. J. W. Ferguson sang, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," assisted by her young daughter Lucile.

Games were played, pinning a hat on Santa, which brought fun and laughter. The prize was won by Robert J. Adkins. Mrs. J. W. Ferguson wrote the largest number of states of the 48 in five minutes with 37, with Lee Skaggs trailing with 36.

Rev. J. W. Ferguson gave, Why We Have Christmas, reading the Bible story and giving a wonderful discourse.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Skaggs assisted by Mrs. Jas. Hutchinson, to the following:

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Ferguson and children Lucille, Louise and small son; Mrs. Elva Fyffe and children, Betty, Joyce and Jessie and Hobart; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Adkins and children Ivis Lee and Robert J.; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. M. Hutchinson and Mr. Skaggs.

After refreshments gifts were distributed from under the tree. May God's richest blessing rest with you this wonderful season and throughout the coming year.

The Garrard county homemakers suitcase library is so popular that the supply of books is often exhausted.

There now are 235 Grade A milk producers in Graves county, the number increasing every year for six years.

Jury Improvements Are Sought By Conference

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 30—Strengthening of laws dealing with grand and petit jury service in circuit courts was recommended to the 1954 General Assembly by the Kentucky Judicial Conference, composed of the seven appellate and 44 circuit judges of the state.

The proposals, made by the conference after a study lasting more than a year call for abolition of distinctions between grand and petit jury service, so that a person called for service on one panel might be used on either.

It also proposed to abolish the use of bystanders, and to rewrite the law so that voter registration is required. The present law calls for "property owner" or "housekeeper." Too often, the property owner lives outside the county or state.

The plan also calls for longer grand jury terms, rather than a three-day session each term, that might be extended, in case of emergency to nine days. Rewriting of the exemption provision also was approved to bring it into line with present day demands.

FLORESS (By Nora Easterling)

Dec. 21—Merry Christmas and a happy New Year to all our friends both far and near.

Our thoughts go to those who are far away, as we near another Christmas Day. Some will be able to come home while others are far away over the foam.

Some thoughts are merry, while others are sad, when we think of those so far from mom and dad.

Yes, Christmas will be grand for those who are here, but in most homes will be a vacant chair.

That son in service over the seas, may spend this Christmas

Our wishes we would now convey, Goes far beyond this Christmas day, We hope that sorrow brings no tears, Along your path through coming years, We wish for you while here on earth, A life that rates a Savior's birth, We wish for you the best of health, And Heaven for your board of wealth.

upon his knees. Pleading to God for peace on earth and thanking Him for the Christ Child's birth.

If the leaders of nations just knew the heart of a soldier boy's mother when the tear drops start.

There would be no more wars or confusions on earth. They would all give praise to our Saviour's birth.

They would be united in perfect love and turn their thoughts toward heaven above.

Kentuckians Gef together For Day

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Adkins of Wimauma, Florida, Mr. and Mrs.
Carl Stephens of Tampa, Florida, were dinner guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rose at their home in Ruskin, Florida. All enjoyed the speckled trout fish dinner and all kinds of fresh vegetables. Then in the afternoon Rev. and Mrs. Worley Hall, formerly of Morehead, Ky., but who have bought a home in Wimauma close to Mr. Adkins' home, came over for a visit.

DEMOCRATS SAY BROWNELL LEFT OUT PART OF FILE

Attorney General Brownell is accused by the Democratic Digest of distortion by omission when he testified before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee concerning the Harry Dexter White case.

The January issue of the Digest, which goes on sale at news-stands December 11, charges that the Attorney General "omitted a crucial statement" of the FBI report of February 1, 1946. According to the Digest, that statement said: "Investigation of White since November, 1943, has been conducted with the primary objective of proving or disproving the original charges enumerated hereinbefore. It should be realized that to prove these charges at this time when they relate to activities occurring in 1942 and 1943 is practically impossible." Termining this a "significant omission," the Digest comments:

"Mr. Brownell, in his Chicago speech, said that 'Harry Dexter White was known to be a Communist spy.' But the FBI summary which Mr. Brownell failed to make public in his sworn Testimony reveals that, at least as far as the FBI was concerned, the evidence necessary to prove that White was a spy was not then at hand."

The Digest contends that Mr.
Brownell omitted that statement port "because of the FBI report because it contained the best reason for President Truman's action in signing White's Commission and in ordering him kept under surveillance."

"The reason for this decision," the Digest adds, "was to avoid alerting White and the other persons named in the FBI report and to offer a possibility of obtaining the additional evidence necessary to secure their indications and conviction. Had Mr.
Truman followed the course of dismissing White, all hope of convincing White of espionage would have vanished. More serious, such action might have alerted the entire spy ring named in the FBI report, which was then under surveillance."

The Digest cites J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, as authority for its contention that keeping White under surveillance was not inconsistent with usual FBI practice. Mr. Hoover's statement of March 26, 1947, concerning the 18-month period of surveillance which was climaxed by destruction of the Nazi spy system in America is recalled. On that occasion, Mr. Hoover said: "I shudder at the thought of what might have happened had there been a disclosure of our operations in the initial days of that investigation."

The Digest also quotes the FBI director's February 7, 1950, explanation of FBI tactics in espionage cases.

"In an espionage case," Mr.
Hoover then testified, "the identification of a wrongdoer is only the first step. What is more important is to ascertain his confidence, his objectives, his sources of information, and his methods of communication. Arrest and public disclosures are steps to be taken only as a matter of last report."

"It is better to know who these people are, and what they are doing, and to immobilize their efforts than it is to expose them publicly and then go through the tireless effort of identifying their successors."

That course was followed in the Judith Coplin case, the Digest points out.

The Digest holds that Attorney General Brownell's publication of the contents of FBI reports constitutes violation of the traditional sanctity of FBI files and will lead to other violations. In fact, the magazine says, there already has been another such violation.

"The day after Mr. Brownell's revelation of the contents of the February 1 FBI report, the Senate Internal Security Committee made public the contents of another FBI report," the Digest observes.
It adds that "the committee declined to disclose how it had obtained that second report."

The Digest foresees Congressional repercussions over reckless actions by headline-hungry investigating groups.

"In January," the Digest says,

"Senator McCarthy's Permanent Investigating Subcommittee will have to come back to the Senate and ask for more funds, and unless there is a change in the 'one-man rule' of that subcommittee, there is likely to be vigorous protests from the Democrats. And Chairman Velde's violation of Committee rules in singling out former President Truman may raise some questions when the House Un-American Activities Committee requests additional funds."

The Digest concludes that Congress will have to do two years' work in one before it adjourns if the Republicans are to have anything like a presentable record to offer the voters next fall.
Sizing up 15 major legislative conflicts faced by the Administration, the Digest picks taxes as the No. 1 issue (next to Korea). "And here the Administration is in trouble no matter which way it turns," the Democratic organ adds.

Holding that the Administration will not dare to repeat the drastic slashes in defense spending tried in 1953, the Digest predicts the Administration will emerge from the session with tax raises or the greatest peacetime deficit in history.

Division within the Republican Party over nearly every important issue before the Congress is noted by the Digest. That GOP cleavage is pronounced in the explosive farm price support issue, which the Digest expects to be just as hot as the tax question.

Special Loans For Livestock Farmers

A special livestock loan program has been set up by the Farmers Home Administration for the benefit of farmers who need financial assistance to continue their livestock operations. Money may be borrowed to pay for feed, to restock herds, repair equipment and otherwise to provide for livestock operations, according to a statement by Earl Vaynaw, Lexington, state director of the FHA.

The loans will bear 5 percent interest.
Applications for special livestock loans should be made at county offices of the Farmers Home Administration. Loans must be approved by local or state livestock loan committees.

FIRM TO OPERATE FROM MOREHEAD

MOREHEAD, Ky.—The Gulf Interstate Gas Company has announced plans to set up a district headquarters in Morehead.

The company is laying a 30 inch line from Lafayette, La., to Ke-nowa, W. Va. It will pass through Rowan, Carter and Boyd counties and is one of the largest transmission lines to be constructed.

Four large gas lines (from 24 to 30 inch) already pass through Rowan county, property of Tennessee Gas Transmission.

Setting up of headquarters at Morehead means that most of the construction work in Northeastern Kentucky will be directed from this point. The line is already within 50 miles of Rowan county.

Two hundred or more men will be stationed at Morehead.

Using automatic feeders and waterers, Garmon Smith of Russell county cares for a flock of 6,700 chickens in 15 minutes.

We wish everybody in Moreau County
A Very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Successful New Year for 1954

State's Forests Could Bring Greater Yield

If well managed and protected, the sawtimber volume of Kentucky's forests could be doubled or tripled, according to a report of the United States Department of Agriculture on a survey made by several agencies, including the Kentucky Department of Conservation and the University of Kentucky.

Forests cover 45 percent of the land in Kentucky or a total of 11½ million acres. Ninety-four percent of the forest land is privately owned—about half by farmers. Less than a million acres are in public ownership.

The government report says Kentucky has about 25 billion board feet of sawtimber and is growing more than a billion board feet a year. Though the amount being cut each year by about 60 percent, it is said that there is still room for improvement in the condition of the forests in this state.

In general, the report states, the timber lands are understocked in volume and poor in quality.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Dec. 21—The Kentucky Railroad Commission extended until December 31, 1955, a recent order which raised freight rates 15 percent on all interstate shipments except coal, sand and gravel. Originally, the order was to have expired February 28, 1954.

Rye, wheat and barley have been growing well in Crittenden county, with farmers expecting good spring pasture.
